Report of the Director

The course of the year 1947 has been marked by efforts on the part of the staff of the Society to embark upon an expanded program—as described to you last year—within the very limited resources at our disposal. As you will notice, for example, we are no longer drawing on "unrestricted" capital funds, yet our financial condition is exceedingly healthy.

This has been possible only through extended cooperation with and from other official governmental bodies with similar or allied purposes. Let's see how this works out in practice.

In the field of historic houses and sites, we have labored to do "something," but with wholly inadequate resources. We have acquired the Kent Tavern in Calais for a badly needed auxiliary "Country Museum," as well as the Grand Isle Log Cabin. Necessary repair work has lagged on both of these, largely from lack of personnel to give constant supervision in the face of maddening delays and unreliable contractors.

But extensive work of this sort is impossible to an organization lacking endowment in this special field (although both of our projects have been carried forward with independently donated funds). It was for this reason that at our last meeting I advocated the formation of a state Historic Sites Commission, and was authorized by you to seek its establishment by the next General Assembly.

I wrote a bill to do this, with the invaluable aid of the Legislative Reference Librarian, Mr. Conant, and through the good offices of Representative Mudgett it was introduced into the House. After many conferences it was passed, with a $20,000 appropriation for the care of state historic sites—particularly at Plymouth and Fairfield—and for the erection of historic markers on the highways. The Director is a statutory member of the Commission and now serves as its Chairman. This body will now take over the work which we would like to have done, but could not.

Also, through the Public Records Commission and the office of the Secretary of State, much work in the field of collating, editing and publishing historical records is being done. The Director serves as Secretary of the former body, and has joined hands with Mrs. Nye, indexer and editor for the latter office, to prepare a new volume of State Papers, based largely on our recent discoveries in the Library of Congress and elsewhere.

In the field of publishing, we have continued to issue the Vermont Quarterly, but with a new typographical format. I am pleased to be able to announce that at the convention of the American Association for State and Local History, in October, we tied with one other state for the honor of best designed historical magazine in the country.

But we could never hope to reach people outside the more limited circle of our membership with the Quarterly. It was for that reason that I proposed to Governor Proctor in 1946 the establishment of a new popular magazine which would seek a wide general audience under conditions similar to those in the general magazine market. Such a magazine would have to be colorful both in text and picture, and the Historical Society had no funds with which to do it. The assistance of the Development Commission was enlisted, and the Director was released part-time to edit the new Vermont Life. From a first issue of 12,000, circulation shot up to 50,000 in the first year, thus reaching nearly 100 times the audience of our more scholarly Quarterly. The Director-Editor is assisted by an advisory board consisting of three members of the Board of Curators: Vrest Orton, Arthur Peach and Walter Hard.

As with houses, a log jam in the printing field has stalled many of our publications. The History of Peacham, however, has gone to press, and can reasonably be expected early next year. Additional volumes in the Growth of Vermont series should be ready before the year is out, and we expect the manuscripts of Dr. Waite's history of the Castleton Medical School and Dr. Rozwinc's study of agricultural politics. The editor of the long-delayed second volume of the Bibliography of Vermont Poets shows few reliable signs of completing her work.

In the educational field there is much yet to do. With the help of Miss Nerney we have made more material available to the press, and have been able to give better correspondence service. And we are beginning a weekly series of radio dramas based on Vermont history over WSKI every Wednesday night at seven. We hope that these can later be made available to all stations. And no one should overlook the special Freedom Train exhibit last October, when over 4000 people visited the Museum as well as the Train. And we also prepared a special exhibit for the Eastern States Exhibition in Springfield, Mass.

But there is a great deal more to be done, largely contingent upon obtaining additional trained personnel in the field. But we have done the impossible on a shoestring before, and will continue to try to do so.

Comments

A recent bulletin of the Cataloging Service of the Library of Congress Processing Department bears the title "Gradation of cataloging in the Library of Congress." The text of the bulletin sets up varying degrees of cataloging to be performed for material of varying importance, prescribing full cataloging for "Material of primary importance" and so on down to "Limited Cataloging" for "material of secondary importance." That is, roughly speaking, what this Society has been doing for some time. Limitation of physical space has frequently made it necessary, however, to care for books of secondary importance before some of the manuscripts and maps of primary importance. The aim of the Society in its policy of accessioning and cataloging is to make at least a brief listing of everything added to the collection. To list everything with limited staff and time necessitates cataloging some things more briefly than others. This policy is evident from the statistical report of the library and museum. For the purposes of this report "accessions" are those "acquisitions" which are formally recorded as added to the collections of the Society. This is not a complete count. Large manuscript collections, for example, may be counted under "acquisitions" when they are cataloged, but would not necessarily be recorded in the accession book. The same is true of other types of material such as broadsides, pictures, microfilms, and newspaper clippings. Hence it is necessary to consider the whole report for a complete picture of the year's additions.

A museum accession may have a number of pieces. There were, for example, about 174 pieces in the 72 exhibits accessioned. The number of things cataloged increased for most types of materials. It will be noticed particularly that more attention was given to manuscripts, pictures, and museum articles. Under exhibits, "labels written" does not include those made for special exhibits such as the one at Springfield, and the two in Montpelier in connection with the Freedom Train. Considerable work was done for these which does not show in the statistical report. Thirteen exhibit cases were changed or rearranged during the year, the new Weeks case being included among them. Two cases were used in the Springfield exhibit, one in City Hall, Montpelier, and four in the Society museum for the Freedom Train. Much has been done in checking the more permanent exhibits, cleaning cases, re-writing labels, etc.

Going back a little, the number of continuations shelved is larger during the years in which the legislature meets because of the number of legislative bills and journals received.

In comparing the number of cards filed, the 7,000 transferred to the Society by the State Library should be subtracted from the 9,769 in 1945. That leaves 2,769 as compared with 6,624 during the year just ended. Newspaper clippings are back to the level of the war years.

The report, then, is progress—with more to come in 1948.

Annual Meeting, 1948

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

The 110th annual meeting of the Vermont Historical Society was opened by Director Earle Newton at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, January 20, 1948, in the smoking room at the State House. Mr. Newton announced that there would be a discussion on the subject of Vermont's part in the Revolution; that going back to the sources available, he would call upon Mr. Chilton Williamson to tell about the documents in Canada looking to the readmission of Vermont into the British empire, and would ask Mrs. Mary G. Nye to tell of those documents which were in the Library of Congress. Those present were invited to intersperse questions or remarks at any point they wished.

Mr. Williamson told of the letters from the Allens to General Haldimand which he had found in the Canadian archives and which he thought tended to prove that at one time the Allens had seriously endeavored to turn Vermont over to the British.

A lively discussion followed in which Professor Arthur Peach, John McDill, Vrest Orton, Leon Dean, John Huden and others participated offering pros and cons and asking questions of Mr. Williamson.

Mrs. Nye told of going through a huge carton of papers salvaged from the vault in 1942, and finding a letter which Henry Stevens had written from Washington to the Treasurer of the State of Vermont requesting more money. He was at that time doing research to prove that Vermont was entitled to certain repayments of costs of the Revolution from Federal Funds. In the letter he mentioned that he had found among others a great many Chittenden, Allen and Washington letters in which he said there were things which could not be made public at that time. The Stevens letter, Mrs. Nye said, she had found just one hundred years to the very day from which it had been written in 1842. She and Mr. Newton had later, in 1946, made a trip to Washington for the express purpose of attending a convention and had stayed over to investigate these letters to which Stevens referred and had found thousands and thousands of Vermont documents, which they had time only to glance at. There were 500 Washington letters alone.

Mr. Newton announced that photostats and microfilms of these had been made and that he was at present engaged in calendaring the Washington papers.

Further discussion followed.

Mr. Newton, bringing the discussion to a close, said that nothing had been decided by the meeting and that he did not think any one expected that it would be, but it had been very profitable. He extended an invitation to those present to attend the dinner and to hear Dr. Brebner, the evening speaker.

The meeting adjourned.

Dinner was served to the members at the Montpelier Tavern at 7:00 p.m. Following the dinner, the meeting was called to order by the President, who welcomed the members and guests.

One of the outstanding things of the year, he said, was the fact that the Freedom Train had visited Vermont. Director Newton had put on a Freedom Train of our own, and those seeing the old Bay Psalm Book on the train were glad to see in the rooms of the Society the press which had printed it.

Part of the Society's work in history, said President Gay, is to try to get it down to the level of the general public, and with the use of visual aids to make history more interesting. He spoke of the radio program which had just been started. The Director of the Society was working on a history of Vermont, for which money had been appropriated by the legislature. Society funds had been shrinking due to the fact that interest on investments had been going down. Sale of books and good membership receipts furnished a part of the income but dues could not be raised again, and an increased endowment was needed. He said he felt the Society was making very good progress; that the fact that the Legislature had increased the annual appropriation to $8,000 indicated that they and the Governor had confidence in the Director.

He called on Mr. Newton for remarks. Mr. Newton said he would not give his report in full as it would be published. Mr. Gay had summarized the situation most adquately and he had only a few things to add.

Following Mr. Newton's remarks Mr. Gay announced that the Secretary's and Treasurer's reports would be omitted as they are printed in the Quarterly.

Mr. Newton read the following proposed amendment to the constitution which had been requested by vote at the previous annual meeting:

> Article Four—The annual meeting for the election of officers shall be held at Montpelier in the afternoon of the Tuesday preceding the third Wednesday in January of each year.
> Amended to read—The annual meeting for the election of officers shall be held at a time and place to be set by the President in consultation with the Executive Committee.

On motion of Mr. Charles Crane, it was voted to adopt the amendment.

Professor Arthur W. Peach reported for the nominating committee, the following list of candidates for office: Leon S. Gay, President, Elbert S. Brigham, Vice President, John P. Clement, Vice President, Clara E. Follette, Secretary, Luman B. Howe, Treasurer. Board of Curators: George H. Amidon, Elbert S. Brigham, Horace Brown, John P. Clement, Leon W. Dean, Walter Hard, Ida B. Horton, John C. Huden, Dorman B. E. Kent, John H. McDill, Vincent B. Maloney, Vrest Orton, Arthur W. Peach, Mortimer R. Proctor, Ralph W. Putnam, Dorothy Randolph, Harold G. Rugg, Dr. George Russell, Curtis R. Smith, William J. Wilgus.

It was voted to accept the report.

Earle W. Newton proposed an amendment to the report, that Arthur W. Peach be nominated a vice-president. It was so voted. A motion that the secretary cast one ballot for the election was carried.

President Gay introduced the speaker, D. John B. Brebner, Professor of history at Columbia University and an authority on Canadian relations. Dr. Brebner gave an informative address on "The Canadian Contradiction to American Manifest Destiny", in which he noted the interesting and significant fact that although the expanding United States had gone in every other direction, it had never absorbed Canada. He reconstructed, historically, why this had been and pointed out Canada's uncomfortable position as a smaller neighbor to a heedless giant.

The meeting was adjourned.

REPORT OF TREASURER

Statement Dated December 31, 1947

During the period July 1, 1947 to December 31, 1947 the detail work of the treasurer was handled by Miss Edythe Estey of Montpelier, Vermont with the able assistance of Pliny Morse of the Society. In taking over these duties in the summer of 1947, it was with the thought that this office should be relinquished at the end of the year.

The treasurer has endeavored to supervise investments along with the Finance Committee, principally for the purpose of taking advantage of any rights which might be available on the call of certain bonds or conversion privileges, or rights relative to stocks owned by the Society. The sheet attached shows a list of the investments as of the year-end, December 31, 1946, as compared with holdings at the close of 1947.

The auditor's report submitted by Frederick A. Mayo of Barre, Vermont, explains in detail any items which should be corrected on the books during the current year. For example, it was necessary to draw from general funds of the Society to take advantage of certain rights available on their holdings of American Telephone & Telegraph stock. Therefore, the general fund should be reimbursed as soon as funds are available from income of sales of securities in the account so affected.

Mr. Elbert S. Brigham, who has served many years in the interest of the Society, has made certain recommendations for management of the accounts and funds for 1948. The treasurer is in accord that detail of the bookkeeping should be handled through Mr. Morse during the ensuing year. He is competent, honest and able. The entire method would result in better handling and would eliminate duplication of effort.

Respectfully submitted,

LUMAN B. HOWE, Treasurer

AUDITOR'S STATEMENT

I have examined the accompanying Statement of Resources by Funds of the Vermont Historical Society as of December 31, 1947, the Statement of Fund Income and Expenditures and comparisons of Current Fund Income and Expenditures with budgeted amounts for the period from January 1, 1947 to December 31, 1947. I did not make a detailed audit of all transactions, but examined or tested the accounting records of the Society and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent I considered necessary.

Cash on deposit in the commercial and savings accounts were confirmed by direct correspondence with the depositories. Trust Fund securities owned by the Society were verified by physical inspection and count.

All purchases and sales of general and trust fund securities were properly authorized by the Finance Committee in writing except the purchase of one American Telephone and Telegraph Company 10 year, 2¾ convertible debenture bond due December 15, 1957 costing $1,000.00 which was paid from current funds.

I made sufficient examination of other resources by reference to the records to be of the opinion that they are correctly stated.

In my opinion, the accompanying Statement of Resources by Funds and the Statement of Fund Income and Expenditures present fairly the financial position of the Vermont Historical Society as of December 31, 1947 and the results from its operations for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK A. MAYO.

Dated at Barre, Vt.,
January 17, 1948.

GENERAL COMMENTS

The total resources of the Society as of December 31, 1947 amounted to $146,799.30 as against $139,744.38 as of December 31, 1946. This reflects an increase of $7,054.92 over the preceding year.

The increase is due, for the most part, to special gifts for specific purposes received during the year. A gift of $5,000.00 was received from Mr. A. Atwater Kent which is to be used in the restoration of historic buildings owned by the Society. A gift of $1,000.00 was received from Mr. George Ellis which has been deposited in a special Publications Fund.

During the year under review the sum of $3,108.47 was expended from the Historic Buildings Fund and was used in restoring the Kent's Tavern property in Calais, Vermont. The total cost of this property is now shown on the Society's books at $8,108.47 which includes the original purchase price of $5,000.00 plus $3,108.47 spent for capital improvements.

The budget surplus for the year amounted to $21.65. Actual income exceeded expenditures by $2,997.06, which resulted in a net gain over budget estimates of $2,975.41.
